Profile

Dedicated second-year student at Curtin University, with a strong academic foundation and a passion for Business Information, Technology, and Systems. I have just completed my second year at Curtin University, and my studies have equipped me with a solid theoretical background in business. I have gained valuable insights into financial decision-making, legal frameworks, project management, and analytics, and familiar with coding languages. My double specialisation in Business Information, Technology, and Systems reflects my commitment to developing a well-rounded skill set in the field. I am enthusiastic about furthering my education and pursuing opportunities to apply my knowledge and expertise in real-world business contexts, particularly when it comes to leveraging my understanding of SAP software for business processes and management.
